Communicating in multicultural settings is a field of central interest to those involved in ensuring access to healthcare. Ever increasing migration requires access to essential legal medical and social services. This book provides an overview of current issues in this field through a multi faceted approach situating the work of potential healthcare professionals and intercultural intermediaries in the broader context of public service providers and practitioners. The book addresses professionals in healthcare and medical settings and people who have experience as linguistic mediators but who have not received any formal training. In order to achieve this goal the author adopts a pedagogical and an academic approach.
